

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method and apparatus for testing materials according to various aspects of the present invention comprises an oven and a control system. The oven is configured to receive a test material for testing and expose the test material to heat to promote drying and/or ashing. The control system receives data, such as temperature data from the oven, and controls the temperature in the oven accordingly.